FRATRICIDE.

John and Patrick Darmody Fight s Bloody Duel.

The Outcome of a Long-Standing Foud Between the Brothers.

John Was Shot in the Heart and Is Dving.

A fratrioidal tragedy was enacted at 425 West Twenty-sixth street at 12.30 this after-

Patrick F. Darmody, who keeps a saloon at that place, shot his brother, John, three times, and one of the wounds, which is in the region of the heart, is expected to prove

The tragedy occurred in the saloon. Only the two brothers were present at the time. Patrick admits the shooting. He says that John came into the saloon, and, having a revolver, commenced firing on him; that he returned the fire, John dropping his weapon and leaving the place.

The wounded man was met on Ninth avenue by Patrolman Henry Livingston, who accompanied him to the West Twentieth attreet station. He was just able to walk when the arrived there.

accompanied him to the West Twentieth street station. He was just able to walk when the arrived there.

An ambulance was sent for from the New York Hospital and the wounded man was taken there.

An examination showed, besides the wound in his left breast, one in his right wrist and another in his left arm.

John is twenty-one years old, a big, burly fellow, and while at the station insisted that the shooting was accidental.

The Sergeant on duty did not believe him and sent Detectives Carey and Logan to arrest Patrick.

They found him behind the bar at his saloon. He did not know how badly his brother was injured. He almitted the shooting, but said it was done in self-defense.

John's pistol was found with all the chambars empty. Patrick had reloaded his.

Both pistols were of 38 calibre, and that used by Patrick was of the British buildog pattern.

Recarding the cause for the attack upon

Regarding the cause for the attack upon him Patrick said that John had tended bar for him and he had discharged him for for him and he had discharged him for drunkenness.

John, he said, had cherished a grudge spainst him since his discharge.

The police of the West Twentieth street station say that John, the injured man, was fond of using a revolver and has before been arrested for a felonious assault committed on his brother, but the charge was not pressed.

Patrick was arraigned before Judge Gorman at Jefferson Market this afternoon and held to await the result of his brother's injuries.

He is twenty-nine years old and was married about three months ago.

BELANEY PLAYED DOWNEY'S FIDDLE.

We Thoughtleasly Caveled It Hame. William Delaney, a coachman, was remanded for examination at Jefferson Market to-day on a charge of stealing a violin valued at $300, the property of Alexander Downey, a Nassau street broker.

In the Spring of 1887 Mr. Downey and his family paid a visit to China, leaving the house in charge of his servants. The latter, to while sway the time, arranged for a grand party at Mr. Downey's house, Fifth avenue and Fifty-civil street.

Other servants and their gallants were invited to the blow-out. Delaney among the number, and he was asked to play the violin when the merrymakers felt in dancing mood at the party. He had neglected to bring his instrument along, but Mr. Downey's rare Gremona was placed in his hands by one of the servants of the house. Many were the reels and figs that he ratiled off during the evening, and he became so infatnated with the instrument that he carried it home with him.

JOHN BRIGHT HAS ANOTHER RELAPSE. The Douth of the English Statesmen Is Now

Momentarily Expected. ISPECTAL CARLS TO THE EVENING WORKS LONDON, Dec. 5 .- Mr. John Bright has had another relapse. His death is momentarily ex-Glasscock Will Manage the Hooslers.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD,]
INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 5.—President Bush gave It out to-day that John Glasscock will manage and captain the Hoosier team next season. While East the Indianapolis men tried to get Morrill, but have now decided to put the team in their old shortstop's hands, thereby giving him a good salary for managing outside what he will receive for playing.

Great Wagon Works Destroyed. [SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]

CORTLAND, N. Y., Dec. 5.—The wagon works at this place, among the largest of their kind in the country, were nearly destroyed by fire this morning. Besides the buildings, a great number of finished and unfinished wagons and cutters were burned. The damage will approach a half million dollars. Insurance about $210,000.

Smith and Creeden Fight to a Draw. [SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]
BOSTON, Dec. 5.—At a quiet club-room near Hanover street, this city, is select few witnessed a two-ounce glove boxing match last evening, between Jack Smith, of Boston, and Frank Cresdon, late of Cork, Ireland. The inill was for a purse of $200. After cithi lively rounds had been fought the bout was declared a draw.

Sprague's Mansion at Canonchet Sold. PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 5.—Canouchet, Gov. Briague's mansion at Narraganstt Pier, owned by Col. Wheaton and Mrs. Sprague, has been said to a syndicate including New York and Rhode Island men, for $800,000. It will be made a Delmonico's by the sea.

Gov. Jackson Is in a Dilemma. [SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]
BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 5.—Gov. Jackson has ed the death warrant of Isane Keenan, who lied John Holley. The execution is fixed for eb. 20. Next February has but twenty-eight aya. How will the Governor get out of the Ingredients of Licerice Make it Invaluable.

Use Young a neglige Paracris for coughs, colds. .

Not Clear Yet How Gambler Phil Daly Was Shot.

Addie and Ella Arraigned a Jefferson Market To-Day.

The Former Says She First Knew Daly Four Years Ago-

Addis Stanton and Ella Hammond, in whose Fourth avenue flat Phil Daly was shot, showed the wear and tear of two nights in prison cell when an Evening World reporter saw them in the West Thirtieth street stationhouse this morning.

PHIL DALY.

Their faces were wan and dirty-looking. Their cloaks and dresses looked slovenly. Their hats were awry.

was of two colors, mud and golden yellow. The first is the original color of her hair. The wash to produce the golden yellow can be bought in any drug store. There had been enough of it on Miss Stanton's tresses, but it enough of it on Miss Stanton's treases, but it is gradually wearing off, and as it fades away she looks less and less lovely.

In fact there is nothing of the seductive siren about either her or Mrs. Hammond, and people are asking more learnestly than ever What did Phil Daly see in such a woman as tanton is?" That they were well acquainted is the prevalent opinion now.

Capt. Reilly, in conversation with Tax

Capt, Rolly, in conversation with last Evening Wonld representative to-day, said. "My private opinion is that Daly and Stanton were acquainted some time."

"What makes you think so?"

"Many things that I have discovered and but together, forming a chain of syidence are that is pretty strong. Stanton declares she knew him well."

"What do you know of Stanton yourself, Captain?"

"I know that she is an 'angel.'"

"A what?"

"I know that she is an 'angel."

"A what?"

"A what?"

"An angel; that is, in Sixth avenue parlance. The angels you hear of about the Haymarket and such places are vastly different from those you are told about in church. You would never hear of Addie Stanton in church. She is a well-known angel on Sixth avenue, though.

"She is the guardian angel of wealthy old men. That is, she protects them from every one but herself and angels friendly to her."

"How long has she been in this city?"

"Four years. She came from the western part of the State. She has been married twice and divorced once."

The Captain could not give the names in the marriage certificates which were found by his detectives, along with a decree of divorce, in Addie's small deak. One of the detectives, however, thought that Stanton was the name of her first husband and Henry Linston that of her second.

In addition to these names she was known as Ettie Edgecombe when she occupied the five rooms on the third floor of the flat house at 219 West Twentieth street.

While she has always been noted for her love for wealthy old men, she has been equally noted for her weakness for young men. One or two of such have always been seen about her various residences, and were generally represented as being her brothers or something.

When young men were scarce or fought beyord ber she would go out looking for generally represented as being her brothers or semething.

When young men were scarce or fought shy of her, she would go out looking for them, and it was while on such missions that she was arrested twice in raids made on a couple of houses in the tenderioin precinct.

Then she opened a place of her own, but that was raided and closed by the police. She says that she met Phil Daly, sr., four years ago. That is about the time Capt. Reilly says she came to this eig.

She was younger then, and not an "angel." Good-looking, young moneyed men were glad to know her for a while, and there was an effort made to put her on the stage.

It did not succeed. Addie has never been on the stage, unless in some minor part for a short time. She was fond of wine, high living and fine dresses, and never minded the cost as long as she got them.

When she became acquainted with the Hammond woman is not known exactly, but it is supposed to be about a year and a half ago, when Mrs. Hammond was keeping house for a number of ladies in West Thirty-second street.

Both are very shrewd women.

They went into parinership.

Both are very shrewd women.
They went into parinership.
They established a bureau of information.
Men about town learned that Addie and Nellie could tell just about how much a man was worth, if he carried money, and if it was easy to get it from him or not.

It is believed that some gamblers made use of the women as decoys to lure men to their gaming rooms. However this may be, the police theory is now that Daly and Stanton at least were acquainted.

He did not need to receive a note of invitation to visit her. He went voluntarily.
When he got there he found another man or traces of him in Miss Stanton's room. He got mad.

Addie screamed for help. Linston and Hammond rushed in from the inner room.
Some one drew a pusiol. A struggle for pos-

"Yes."
A gambler, who ought to know, said:
"Daly tells it well, but I do not believe his story. One thing I know is that the $30,000 in Government bonds that he said he had were only that amount of stock of a driving park in New Jersey worth about fifteen cents on the dollar."
Mr. Daly scouted this statement.
The reporter met a young man this morning who told him that he had once answored an ad in a newspaper, which said that a handsome young woman desired to make the acquaintance of a young man. Object matrimony.

quaintaine of a young man. Object matrimony.

He answered it and met Addie Stanton.

She dressed very well," he said, "and was a glib talker. She claimed to have just arrived from San Francisco. She referred to it as 'Frisco continually. She told me she expected to go to London this December.

'She said she had been on the stage, and had the names of all the small actors and actresses by heart. She referred continually to the Rialto.

'She invited me to call at 219 West Twentieth street on the Sth of September last, but before the time arrived 1 got a note from her telling me she was going to Long Branch to see a friend and would be back on the following Monday."

When the reporter attempted to interview Miss Stanton this morning she declared emphatically:

phatically:
"I will not talk with you reporters. I have nothing to say, anyhow, until I see my law-nothing to say, anyhow, until I see my lawyer."

"Who is he?"

She would not answer the reporter, but she told Capt. Reilly that his name was Le Barbler, of 35 Broadway. Soon after she and Mrs. Hammond, escorted by Capt. Reilly, Detective Britt and The Evening Woald reporter, left the station-house. They boarded a bobtail car at Seventh avenue and went to Jefferson Market Police Court.
Lawyer LeBarbier was there waiting for tham.

Lawyer LeBarbier was there waiting for tham.

He told the reporter that he had known Addie for some time.

"Was she ever on the stage?"

"I guess so. I believe she was."

"How long have you known her?"

"Oh, I don't know."

"Where was she living when you knew her first?"

"Pve forgotten."

"Where did you last see her?"

"Thirty-eighth street, I think."

"East of West?"

"West. I think. Yes, it must have been West."

"West, I think. Yes, it must have been West."

"What was the number of the house?"

"Really I've forgotten."

He promised the reporter, however, that he would get all the information he could from his elient for the press this afternoon.

The women were arraigned before Justice Gorman. Assistant District Attorney Hartman appeared for the people.

He had a note from Dr. Smith, of 26 West Thirtieth street, stating that Mr. Daly was too ill to leave his house, and could not do so before Friday at the earliest.

In view of this Mr. Hartman asked to have the case adjourned until then.

At first Lawyer LeBarbier wanted the case to go on, and asked for the "discharge of these ladies."

Every one smiled.

"What have they done?" asked the lawyer.

lawyer.

This innocent question caused more smiles.

'If you insist on going on with the case now we'll have the complaint drawn up, and then you will know what they have done, if you do not know," said Justice Gorman.

'I am ready," said Mr. Le Barbier.

'Make work are rescalated, and his Honor.

Make your complaint," said his Honor "Make your complaint," said his Honor to Detective Hayes.

The lawyer had a whispered consultation with his clients, after which he retracted his desire to go on, and the case was set down peremptorily for Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

There were a dozen Headquarters detectives in court, but not one of them could say he had ever seen Addie or her companion before.

he had ever seen Addie or her compenion before.

Mr. Le Barbier wanted to know if he sould not consult with his clients at the West Thirtieth street station-house.

Mr. Hartman said he had no objection if Supt. Murray consented.

Thereupon Capt. Reilly started for Headquarters to see if it could be arranged, and the lawyer said he would be at the stationhouse at 4 p. M. to find out.

The women were taken back to their prison cells, and another act in this mysterious, romantic, puzzling drama was ended.

ACRES OF LUMBER ABLAZE. A Great Pire in the Yards at Cleveland This Morning.

(SPECIAL TO THE SYENING WORLD. CLEVELAND, Dec. 5.—The fire in Wood & Jenks's lumber yard in the south part of the city

Jenks's lumber yard in the south part of the city at 3 o'clock this morning has burned nearly four million feet of imber, and is still burning. The fire is of incendiary origin.

Partly burned papers and shavings were found under a pile of lumber. The yards are so far out that great difficulty is experienced in obtaining water. Nearly the entire yard, containing between five and six million feet of lumber, is threatened with total destruction.

Suing the Allan Line for Damages. [SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]
BOSTON, Dec. 5.—Four damage suits agains he Allan Line were begun in the Superior Civil Court this morning.

The complainants charge that the food was bad, and that on one particular voyage, with 711 passengers aboard, the sanitary arrangements were inadequate.

Particularly was this true after the passengers ate a certain kind of gruel which produced diarrhes. Gen. Harrison Goes Hunting. [aprilate to the evening world.]

Indianapolis, Dec. 5.—Gen. Harrison left this morning on the Indianapolis, Decatur and Springfield road, in company with his son-inlaw, to spend two days hunting.

Parnell Commission and the Holidays. (BY CARLE TO THE PRESS NEWS ASSOCIATION.)
LONDON, Dec. 5.—The Paruell Commission will adjourn on the 15th inst. for the holidays, meeting again on Jan. 15.

Value of Advertisements. Value of Advertisements.

"Do you believe in advertising " asid a prominent lawyer, a day or two ago. "Well, rather; and in the hidden advertisement more than in any other. I remember, one day, reading a very interesting story, that ended in what I took to be a puff for Dr. Punaga Pilasant Pungariva. Pallatra. I threw down the paper in a rage. Not a week after that I needed some medicine of that kind, and went and bought these same little wills. "Del I fird them good?" Why, yes, the best thing of the kind Lever saw, but that has mathing to do with the Brat questions, and I only mention the Joke on myself to show that advertising does bay."

session of it ensued, and Linston (Addie's fr end) got it.

In the excitement of the moment he fired at the old sport, whose blood was up, and who could easily have whipped Hammond and Linston alone.

The bullet quelled his passion. While he was groping at the door trying to get out the men left by the kitchen door, and got out ahead of him.

Addie Stanton's hands are all scratched and cut. She says she burned them.

Mr. Daly denies positivery that he ever knew her. An Evenino Wonld reporter naked him: "Where are the letters the woman sent you?"

"Oh, I burned them up," he answered.

"The three of them?"

"Oh, I burned them up," he answered.

"The unuouncement that Charles W. Green, who is on trial for the murder of Nicholas Goldenkirch, would take the stand and testing the standard testing the standard who is on trial for the murder of Nicholas Goldenkirch, would take the stand and tes-tify in his own behalf was the means of crowding the Court of Sessions, in Brooklyn, this morning.

As early as 9 o'clock people began crowding each other in their efforts to obtain choice seats, and at 10 o'clock the court-room was packed. Green entered and took his usual seat in front of the pillar. Before sitting down he removed his handsome chinchilla overcost, displaying his neat black frock coat, closely buttoned, and shining white turn-down collar.

He was slightly nervous, and the twitching of his hands and the way in which he handled his hat showed that he was undergoing of his hands and the way in which he handled his hat showed that he was undergoing a severe strain.

Green was the third witness called to the stand this morning.

He said his family consisted of himself and sister when he lived at 108 Rodney street. They had been living together for eighteen years. Prior to that he lived with his parents. He said he was thirty-six years old. His sister is thirty-nine years.

He first met Goldenkirch in 1880 at his house in Seventh street, having been introduced by his sister. The first year he knew him Goldenkirch called twice a month. After a year he questioned his sister whether Goldenkirch was her company. She said that she could attend to the matter herself. He told her he didn't think Goldenkirch would marry her on account of her physical condition. She had been sick since she was three years old. He couldn't recall any conversation between himself and sister after that for several months, although he saw Goldenkirch call.

eral months, although he saw Goldenkirch call.

He heard ugly stories floating around about Goldenkirch's calling at the house, and when he asked his sister about it she said it was none of the neighbors' business.

"Did you have a servant girl in your house in March, 1887, named Julia Bruning?"

"Yes, we did."

"Did you learn that the girl was going to leave, and did you ask her why?"

"I did. I asked her if she got money enough. She said she did, and refused to tell me why she left. She finished by referring me to her uncle."

"Did you find out why she left?"

"Yes, afterwards."

The witness said that when he spoke to his sister about Goldenkirch's actions the latter said she wouldn't take the girl's word. And then he said: "I asked the girl whether ahe had been indecently assanited by Goldenkirch, and she told me she had. I then had a talk with the girl's uncle, and we took the girl to a notary public, where she made a sworn statement implicating Goldenkirch.

The affidavit was shown to Green, and he identified it.

He afterwards any Goldenkirch and account of the said of the statement implicating Goldenkirch.

the girl's uncle, and we took the girl to a notary public, where she made a sworn statement implicating Goldenkirch."

The affidavit was shown to Green, and he identified it.

He afterwards saw Goldenkirch and accused him of the foul act. The latter denied it, saying that the girl was attempting blackmail.

Green told him if he didn't explain the matter satisfactorily to him he couldn't come into the house.

The witness denied having any knowledge of Goldenkirch calling at the house from the time of the servant gurl episode until the 23d of March following.

On that date he saw a handsome basket of flowers on the table and saked where they came from. Mrs. Dillingham, who was at the table, said that they came from Goldenkirch, who called the night before. At that time his sister was very sick.

On the Friday night before the shooting he opened the door, and Goldenkirch called to see his sister. He went up and asked his sister's wishes, and at her request allowed Goldenkirch to go upstairs.

After a certain time he requested Goldenkirch to leave, as his sister was too sick. Goldenkirch refused to go and the winness went to the foot of the bed. The sister sprang up and shrieked: "Don't kill him." Witness then went out in the hallway with the nurse.

In a few minutes he sent Mr. Dillingham in to tell Goldenkirch to come out, as he wished to see him. He came out and asked why they couldn't be triends, and Green demanded that he explain his conduct. He refused, saying that his "hands were ited."

Green told him that when he explained his conduct they could be good friends; until then he should stay away. He went upstairs and Goldenkirch because he had Muller with him and he didn't wash to discuss their differences in the presence of a third party.

On Monday night he was in the dining room, when the door-bell rang. He went up and found Goldenkirch and told him he couldn't come in.

Goldenkirch pushed the door open and attempted to go upstairs, and he commanded him to stop. Goldenkirch had his hand in his coat poekes, tone.

The pistol was shown him. He identified it, and said he bought it five years ago. He had carried a pistol for fifteen years, as at times he had large sums of money on his

LITTLEWOOD SAILED AWAY.

He Took His Dinmond Belt and Ris Father but Says He'll Come Back. Champion Six-Day-Walker George Littlewood with his belt, his dollars and his father, sailed for England this morning in the Inman line steamship City of Herlin.

He said before leaving that he would return to this country and enter the next race that is started.

The date is not decided upon, but it will probably be in February or March next.

Shot by Her Drauken Husband HAVERGIAL TO THE EVERIM WORLD.]

HAVERGIAL TO THE EVERIM WORLD.]

HAVERGIAL MASS., Dec. 5.—James O'Neil, employed in the Thomb hat factory, and living near the foot of River street, reached home drunk about 9 o'clock last night. He went into the kitches, draw a revolver and shet his wife four times in the beed. O'Neil was captured. The woman will probably die.

THAT QUEER MARRIAGE.

Rev. Mr. Auld Married the Widow Christie at the Bishop's Behest.

The Romantic Story of a Wedding Without Love.

A Contract Made Eighteen Months Before the Ceremony.

In this morning's WonLD there appears the strange story of the marriage of Harry F. Auld, late rector in St. Mary's Protestant Auld, late rector in St. Mary's Protestant Episcopal Church, to a widow of thirty years, Mrs. Emms Helen Christic. Both bride and groom reside in East One Hundred and Fortieth street, Mr. Auld at 607 and the widow at 611. They were married on Wed-nesday night of last week.

On March 4, 1887, the parties appeared beon March 4, 1887, the parties appeared to fore the Rev. A. J. Thompson, of St. Paul's Church, Morrisania, and asked to be married. The reverend gentleman declined to perform the ceremony, it being in the Lenten season; but the parties then agned this contract:

but the parties then signed this contract:

AULD—CHRISTIE.—At the vestry of St. Paul's Church, New York City, in the presence of the Rev. A. J. Thompson. Assistant. Rector, on March 4, 1887. Be it known by those presents that Harry F. Auld, of the county and State of New York, residing in New York City, and Emma HelenChristie, of the same city, county and State, selemnly vow and covenant together in holy matrimony, unto which covenant we have set our signatures in the presence of witnesses.

(Witness),
A. J. TROMPSON. EMMA H. CHRISTIE.

Some time after this contract had been en-our agnatures in the presence of witnesses.

(Witness),
A. J. Thompson.

Some time after this contract had been entered into the minister endeavored to be released, but the determined widow said nay.

He grew thin and pale, and, it is said, became afflicted with St. Vitus's dance, all of which is attributed to the attentions of the widow.

He finally up and told her that he could never marry her, and for fear of creating a scandal he resigned his pastorate.

Bishop Potter was appealed to, but he said that Auld was in duty bound to marry the that Auld was in duty bound to marry the widow.

Then the marriage was consummated.

An Evenino Wonep reporter called on Mr. Auld this morning. The poor man was in a pitiable state. His muscles twitched and tears ran down his cheeks as the reporter questioned him.

"What have I done," he asked piteously.
"that I should be persecuted in this way? I have nothing to say about the matter at all. I simply promised to marry the woman and as a man of honor I was bound to keep my word."

my word."
But why do you not live with your wife?"

"But why do you not live with your wife?" inquired the reporter, gently.

"Oh, don't ask me, please. I cannot tell you. Indeed I cannot."

The young minister's mother then entered the room and started to tell the reporter something about the facts, but the son gently checked her and then said he had nothing further to say.

The reporter then visited Mrs. Christle's. or Mrs. Auld's house, at 611.

In response to his ring the door was opened by an elderly woman the space of just one inch.

"I'd like to see Mrs. Auld"-"She's out of town." Bang! went the door, and the bolts rattled nside.

The marriage ceremony was a dramatic af fair.

Or. Nov. 25 Mrs. Christie and a friend called upon the Rev. Victor C. Smith, rector of the Church of the Holy Faith, who lives on One Hundred and Sixty-fifth street, near Boston avenue.

She asked the clergyman if he would perform a ceremony at his house on Wednesday avening. The minister assented, providing there were no legal impediments.

She asked the clergyman if he would perform a ceremony at his house on Wednesday avening. The minister assented, providing there were no legal impediments.

The clergyman was astonished to find that the groom was to be his old classmate, and he wondered greatly at the narriage. Before leaving the woman said: "I'll see that Mr. Auld writes you and asks to have the marriage performed."

Dr. Smith said this morning that he was not agreeably impressed by the woman's demeanor, and that he awaited the coming of the bridal party with unusual impatience. In the afternoon he received a brief note from Mr. Auld, requesting that the marriage be performed.

The elergyman performed the usual rites. At their conclusion, Mr. Auld turned to his newly made wife and said:

"I marry you, but I will never live with you; nor do I want you to ever darken my doors again."

Bishop Henry Potter, to whose arbitrament the question of young Mr. Auld's matrimonial obligations to Mrs. Christie was submitted, consented to see The Evening Wonder of Rev. Mr. Auld to Mrs. Christie was submitted, consented to see The Evening Would you object to stating why you feel that the young elergyman was bound to marry the lady? You have seen the story, probably, in the morning paper, extending the Wonling elergyman was bound to marry the lady? You have seen the story, probably, in the morning paper, extending the Wonling the woung elergyman was bound to marry the lady? You have seen it," returned the Bishop, who had risen and was moving towards the open fire.

He took the paper, read four words and returned it to the reporter with a cold look of disapproval in his eye. Then he said measuredly and with some unction:

"I wonder that it does not occur to the newspapers that it is not a proper thing to question persons occupying the positions which Archbishop Corrigan and myself hold in regard to points of judicial decision. They do not ask a judge what his opinion is of a criminal, or in a case which comes before him for adjudication.

"I seems to me very il

"I should like to ask you one question." the reporter began.
"But I have said I did not have anything to say about the case," said the Bishop, with mild severity.
"This is on an abstract point which is suggested by this case," returned the reporter with sweet humility. "In the Cathoho Church"—
"Roman Catholic," softly interpolated Bishop Potter.
"A betrothal solemnly entered in is considered quite a binding contract, not admitting of release without somewhat grave reasons. An engagement to marry is not musually regarded with this severity of view by others. I thought that possibly it might be so considered by some Episcopalians."
"I do not think it is looked on in the light of anything so exceedingly binding," said Bishop Potter, as he opened the door and the reporter glided through into the hall. "Good morning."

MAYOR O'BRIEN AND THE MAID. e Verment School-Teacher's Thanks She Wants to Send Him Her Picture.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] Boston, Dec. 5. - Mayor O'Brien, a Thanks-

Bosros, Dec. 5.—Mayor O'Brien, a Thanks-giving turkey, a note from a country school-teacher in Vermont and the gift of a gold watch from the Mayor have been among the topics of talk the past few days. Some of the local papers have stated that the Mayor was taken in, but if he was it was in the goodnes taken in, but if he was it was in the goodness of his heart and in believing that the note he received was written with honest intentious. The letter which the Mayor has received from the Vermont young lady certainly indicates that His Honor was right in believing that the young lady wrote her note in good faith, and that she appreciates the present received from His Honor. The letter which came to the Mayor in to-day's mail was as follows:

EAST RANDOLPH, Vt., Dec. 2, 1888.

came to the Mayor in to-day's mail was as follows:

East Randelpe, Vt., Dec. 2, 1888.

Mr. O'Brien.

Much Espected Friend; I hardly know how to begin this letter to you after receiving such a beautiful gift from you last evening. Words cannot begin to express the thanks which I return to you in this letter. Ittle did I ever expect to receive a ruply, and when Mr. Rolfe, the Globe correspondent, called on me last evening with the telegram bearing the news. I was so surprised I could not give him anything but a disconnected account. I will try and express myself more clearly in this letter. Nothing could have been more acceptable. I am an only child. I was graduated at the Randolph State Normal School four years ago. Since then I have taught three years, and one summer operated a typewriter for a law firm in New York. I was so bliged to give up teaching on account of ill-health for a time. I have never been able to purchase a watch and chain, so I have always borrowed one, and now to receive such a valuable watch from you I am very truly grateful, and I think I can afford to get a nice chain to attach to it. I was so pleased on receiving it that I could not express myself. I assure you it was a great surprise. I know now that there is one good Democrat. I think a man of your heart ought to be a Republican. This may lead me to turn, and change my politics: at least, I shall always cherish kind affections for one who has been so kind to me. The watch is beautiful. I have worn it to church to-day, feeling very proud of the watch and the giver. Mr. Rolfe, the Globe correspondent, spoke in very high terms of you. I him kyou wall mot need to go to Quincy Market next year to purchase a Thanksgiving turkey, for I assure you, if I am alive, you shall receive as nice a turkey for Thanksgiving as the State of Vermont can afford. The watch came just in time, as I go in my school to-morrow morning, and the watch will be my constant companion. There was nothing I so much needed, and nothing could have pleased me more. Should y

SULLIVAN'S SORE HEEL.

It Won't Prevent His Challenging Kilrain

A despatch from Minneapolis to a friend of Dominick McCaffrey, in Philadelphia, printed this morning, stated that McCaffrey had forwarded $300 to the New York Cityper, with a challenge to fight John L. Sullivan to a finish for $2,500 a side, and had offered Sullivan $2,000 to stand up before him ten rounds in public.

At the Cupper office it was said that no such challenge or forfeit had reached here.
Arthur T. Lumley, of the Rustrated News, said that he did not think McCaffrey wanted to said that he did not think McCaffrey wanted to fight John, and he was sure the two were the bost of friends. Mr. Luniey thought Sullivan would not fight McCaffrey. He wants to meet Kilrain.

Sullivan will be in condition to fight with gloves, under Queensbarry rules, in ten weeks, said Mr. Luniey. He is just now suffering with a sore heel, caused by a pair of new shoes, but this will not interfere with his issuing a challenge to fight Kilrain, which he will probably do to-morrow.

He wants to fight under the London rules to a finish, and would not be in condition to do this inside of four months, nor would he fight this way for less than $10,000, but I think he this way for less than $10,000, but I think he would be willing to fight anybody according to Queensberry rules for $5,000, for then he would have a decided advantage."

The Day in Wall Street. There was another break in Missouri Pacific to-day, the shares selling down over 3 points, to 60%. This is the lowest price touched since June 12, and the outpouring of stock gives rise Juna 12, and the outpouring of stock gives rise to the belief that the Gould interest has been the largest seller.

It is said that since the proposed Clearing-House plan of the Southwestern roads was rejected by the Rock Island and Northwestern lines Gould has abandoned his stocks to the tender meroics of the bears.

The story now is that the Missouri Pacific will pass its dividend altogether and that the Rock Island will come down to 1 per cent. for the quarter.

Rich & West Puint Yer
Rich & West Puint Yer
Rich & West Puint Yer pitt
St. Paul & Omaha.
St. Paul & Omaha
St. Paul & Omaha
St. Puint & Manifoha
St. Puint & San Francisco
St. Louis & Pacific
Walnash, St. Louis Pacific
Western Union Puinterpalh
Wheeling & Lake Eris.

Sir William Pearce Bring.
[BY CARLE TO THE PRESS NEWS ASSOCIATION.]
LONDON, Dec. 5.—Sir William Pearce, Conservative member of the House of Commons for the Govan Division of Lanarhabire, is dying from hear's disease.

ALL THE LATEST NEW

RACING AT CLIFTON.

Drumstick the Winner of the Hornellsville Handicap.

Banbridge Defeats Juggler for the Third Race.

Favorites Lakewood and Carnegie Delight Their Backers.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD,]
RACE TRACK, CLIPTON, N. J., Dec. 5.—The usual crowd was on hand to-day, and the track was in first-rate condition. Jim Clare handled Lakewood and Carnegie, both favorities in the betting, carried off the first two races. Banbridge, against whom odds of 7 to 1 were offered, won the third race with comparative case.

Purse $250; selling allowan Time—2. 134.

Elgin, Boasnza, Harwood, Argo, Sam Brown, Adonis, Pilot, Quincy, Easterbok and Gounod were the other starters.

The Race.—Adonis got off in the lead followed by Bonanza and Bellwood. Adonis held the lead until rounding the lower turn, when Bellwood came up and passed him.

Half way down the stretch, Banbridge, who was in the rear, forged to the front and won by a head from Juggler, who beat Bellwood by a lead in the rear.

length.

Betting—Banbridge straight, 7 to 1; place, is 1; Juggler for the place, 2 to 1; Mutual paid, $18,05; place, $15.85; Juggler paid $0.05.

Bonnie S., Specialty, Lancaster and Bright Eyes also started.

The Race.—Drumstick got under the wire first, one and a half lengths in front of J. J. OB., who was the same distance before Pericles.

Betting—Drumstick straight, 236 to 1; place, 0 to 5; J. J. OB., for the place, 1 to 2, Mutu-cls paid $12.80; place, $6.20; J. J. OB, paid $4.20. Purse $500; six and one-half furlongs.
Won by Servia, Peril second and Lafitte third.,
Time—1. 24.
Mutnels paid $17.80; place, $5.75; Puril

Gattenburg Entrice for Te-Merrow.

[EPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLS.]

NORTH HUDSON DRIVING PARK, N.J., Dec. &.—
Following are the entries for Thursday, Dec. &.—
First Rass.—Purse $900; six and a half furlemental than 118; September 118; September 118; Formalis E., 115; Formalis E., 116; Thursday, 116; Andrews 116; Den. 116; September 116; Bellevin E., 116; Formalis E.,

Entries for the New Orleans Ruces. [SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]
NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 5.—Here are the entries for Thursday, Dec. 6:
First Reco. Solling allowances: all furbance, Strart,
18: Wild Boy, 11: Lake Dart, 106; Lolis May, 102;
Hollywood, 101; Pomercy, 106; Dolls May, 102;
Hollywood, 101; Pomercy, 109; Dis.
Second Raco. Solling allowances; five furbance,
104; Gupage Girl, 101; Eurnity, 101; Moonahane,
105; McMattry, 97;
Third Raco. Solling allowances; for two-post-older;
19: furbance, Cherry Blosson, 117; Allahene, 117;
Fruppahly's Last, 106; Irin, 103; Dahota, 100; Pasing, 04 D.
Pourth Raco. Handionp; seven furbance. Fred Woodley, 105; Sherwood, 14; Golightly, Carus, Event-and Aligens, 20; in, sech.

Weather clear, track slow. Shot Herself Through the Head. (SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
WATERTOWN, N. Y., Dec. 5.—Miss Anna 3 Moore, eighteen years of age, shot burself through the head and died as hour later of Antwern this county, lost night. Miss Moore was highly accomplished and of excellent character. The cause of the deed is unknown.

Fugo Schmidt Recaptured.

Edward Schmidt, the Jorsey City gamblinhouse keeper who skipped his ball a year as and left his bondsman, John Ecycl, in the furnite the tune of $1,000, was caught by Delective Holtic yesterday.